

ANTON JOHANSON,

Secretary Swedish Football Association.

The man who has been most active on the other side in the development of soccer relations between his country and the United States. He was the soul of geniality and friendship when the U.S.F.A. team visited Sweden in 1916, and again when the Bethlehems made the trip in 1913. Aside from his fine hospitality, his financial genius has been the big element in making both ventures so successful.
